"We've all been sitting in the same tables and chairs for 30 years. With Clara tables, Cy-Fair's instructors can teach in traditional set-ups or change the layout for group activities. izzy expresses innovative design and contemporary thinking, and also provides furniture with function. That is what's so absolutely attractive about izzy. I also appreciate the details incorporated in the design, which complements the college's architecture. It's fun - something 'zoomy!' izzy is paying attention to what designers are looking for in new settings."

The Need

Opening in 2003, Cy-Fair College needed furniture and seating to equip five buildings across a brand new 200-acre campus. To break away from standard classroom furnishings, Cy-Fair wanted collaborative furniture for collaborative rooms - their description for what we used to call classrooms. This new furniture needed to be lightweight for easy rearranging, yet durable enough to support public use.

izzy's Solution

The design details, flexibility, and function of lightweight Clara tables moved izzydesign to the head of the class. Working with Gensler on project design, izzydesign created a customized trapezoid-shaped table with durable solid edges that can be easily moved and reconfigured to meet the learning, studying, and teaching needs of Cy-Fair's students and instructors.
